CARTER MEDICINE CO.

Gentlemen—Without any solicitation upon your part, whatever, I take pleasure in volunteering to give my experience of your Little Liver Pills.

My wife has been using them for about six weeks; has not been bothered with Headache during that time; has been married over three years; has known my wife over eight years; and during that time I have had skilled physicians to prescribe and give medicine of various kinds, but no relief came. I never knew her to go four weeks in eight years without having a severe attack of Sick Headache until we tried your Little Liver Pills. Since that time she has had no Headache, whatever. Would not be without the Little Liver Pills for ten times its cost. I consider it an article of great merit.

Yours truly,

J. C. DUNCAN, 606 Central Street.

YOUNG CATTLE.

Early Maturity the Order of the Day.

Away up in the north where the science of feeding is understood, and the heaviest weights have been reached in raising and fattening beefs for market, where eighteen hundred pounds for a four-year old is not considered heavy, the feeders have one by one come to the conclusion that the heavy beef steer has had its day and must now give way to younger animals. Instead of four or five-year-old steers being considered the market animals to realize the highest profit, the long two and the short three are to have a chance and in their day and generation be considered the best to handle.

The significance of this change in the opinion of well posted operators in the north, will be more widely understood shortly than now, because the change is not so general yet, as it will be in the near future. It is only now that men are putting on the market their last heavy cattle and generally expressing themselves as dissatisfied with the difference in weight and slight advance in prices over younger animals in equally good condition of flesh. The wide gap between the matured Longhorn or other breeds of improved cattle, may not be changed by this, yet in the change the Longhorn and more especially the improved Texan will be benefited, if only in the decrease in weight of cattle on the market making an increased demand, naturally following this change as night follows day.

These seemingly insignificant changes must lead to a demand for numbers outside of placing all fat cattle more on the plane of equality, pound for pound, although it may, and probably will, widen the cash value between fat and half fat cattle.

The future of the Southwest, assured as it has been by the increasing consumption, the enhanced price of feed in the North, (increasing now, notwithstanding the alleged abundance) the rushing on the market of cattle held awhile for higher prices, the promises of better and quicker transit for range stocks, and the favorable outlook for early beefs, all indicate satisfactory prices for range cattle, notwithstanding the conservative views held by dealers.

The spring market and its possibly high prices is not so much in danger of being flooded with half fat stock from this state as it would be had the beefs not been cut very close last year, but it is in reality the greatest element of weakness and very likely will have a decided effect to weaken prices after the first rush, as it has many times before.—Texas Live Stock Journal.

No Girl Received by Express.

[New York Tribune.]

The remarkable express package which was said to have been sent to this city from Selma, Alabama, in charge of an agent of the Southern Express Company, did not arrive at the company's office, at No. 59 Broadway, on Saturday, nor was any such package expected by the employees there. A Tribune reporter called at the office and asked the man in charge if he had heard of a "beautiful girl, about nineteen years old, well dressed, and billed from Selma, Alabama, to New York, with a tag marked C. O. D. $45."

"No," replied the agent, "no such package has been received here, nor do we expect anything of the kind. That story is a first-class hoax. Somebody has been fooled, that's what's the matter."

"Well, if such a package had been shipped here, would you have received it by this time?"

"Oh, yes; it ought to have been here this morning. There is no manifest of such a shipment, nor anything to indicate that a 'beautiful girl' has been shipped to this city. There have been a lot of persons in here asking about it. It's a hoax."

"Do such packages ever come by express?"

"Yes, once in a while. On Washington's birthday we received by express a young colored girl, a milliner, who had been shipped from the south, who some family here in New York, by whom she was to be employed as a servant. She came with a tag on her just like any package. She was taken to the place indicated and left there. But this story a 'beautiful girl, nineteen years old'—why, if she was nineteen years old she probably knows enough to travel alone. If she doesn't, I'm sorry for her. Shipping people by express used to be done a great deal more years ago than it is nowadays. We very seldom have such delicate freight now."

The Kansas City Price Current a few weeks since, stated that Kansas drovers were anxious to know what they would have to pay for young Texas cattle for the drive, and finally asked in regard to Texas cattle, "are they high?" Since the stock meeting at Austin and the wind up of most all the spring trades to the satisfaction of all parties, we would like to ask the "Price Current" its own question, "Texas cattle, are they high?"—Texas Live Stock Journal.

The Texas legislature seems to realize at last that the stockman has rights that they ought to respect. Perhaps that late meeting of the Texas Live Stock Association did the good work, or perhaps the influence of the stockmen in the legislature was all sufficient. At any rate, there is a gratifying disposition manifested now by our law makers to do something sensible in the interest of that class of men in the state heretofore the most neglected by them.—Texas Wool Grower.
